About This Game

They have HORNS is a fast topdown shooter in which it is essential to listen to his intuition in order to stand as long as possible the enemy hordes. Easy to learn, but hard to master. The up to 4 player coop mode works very simple via plugin play.

What differentiates my game mainly from the other thousand Twinstick TopDown Horde Shooter: The opponents are difficult to circumvent through the narrower premises and also the AI which tries to cut the way leads to the direct confrontation. If you do not deal with your abilities properly and keep a cool head despite the high speed, the battle will not win for you.

nEVER ACCEPT THIS WHEN A FRIEND GIFTS THIS TRASH TO YOU. Best music ever and very rewarding shaving system. I rate 8.5/10. It is a nice puzzle game with little bit of precision. I found myself stuck a few times because I tried to think too much outside the box. Can't wait for the multiplayer.. CRAP!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Everything has to be controlled manually,\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665happens and you can't do anything about it unless you see it on time. Your production reduces on it's own for no apparent reason, your capital is defensell when you are training an army to be transfert to your general. Even if you know Eastern EUrope by heart, it take too long to find something. You do everything right and revolt starts. No level of difficulty can be set. You ambassadors disapear when no negotiation where done. Technologie is expensive and you can't produce that much even if everything was built in your city. Finally, your allies lunch spy attacks against you. Nothing beats Knights of Honor. DON't waste your money.

But I always blame steam for not providing demos.. Half of me is wondering how high the art team had to get to design most of the creatures in this game. I am thankful for the awesome enemies to shoot and figure out, but I really worry about your long term health... I mean, you can smoke yourself insane ya know?

The other half of me is smiling with glee at a unique and just plain FUN game that doesn't take itself too seriously, can be blown through in an hour, and still have the "try one more time" factor to make me want to play again and again. Neat storyline, fun gameplay, lot of fun things to discover while playing the game too. GREAT JOB!!!

Highly recomend, yep!. Although it may seem simple at first, this is a really fun game. It's extremely easy to get a grasp on the mechanics but there's plenty of room to discover new strategies and work out different plans that keep the game fresh. The game is also free on mobile, which allows it to be used as a demo of sorts if you're interested in playing the Steam version, especially since it allows crossplay with other platforms.

It's not all great, though. This is a game that requires a LOT of people to play: 4 people just to start a game and ideally 6-7 if you don't want games to end instantly. The public community for this game also suffers from a lot of issues that other free multiplayer games do, which means you'd probably want to play with people you know to ensure that the game is fair and fun.

Definitely shows a lot of potential! Looking forward to some new maps, gamemodes, settings, etc.. If you enjoy creating or reading isometric geometry figures, or like doing the spatial image questions out of the AFAST, you'll have fun with this. If you dislike those sorts of things, however, it may not be as enjoyable for you. Playing through from first to last level goes very quickly, but it is only $0.99 USD, so it is worth it.

Very crude. Due to FSX default aircraft limitations, ILS, VOR, AP, and ATC, kinda matters in a 747-400. The mission architect could have at least set you up on a aligning VOR for approach, eg KANSAI mission (consult the landing charts). When you look at knee board the mission details or landing plates have not been added, a bit lazy. $10 doesn't go far. It is a bit like calling a dot to dot a sketch. Love the idea, there just needs to be more collaboration, like sell the missions bundled to utilise proper Aerosoft style Airbus or Boeing to give better ILS, VOR and AP. If people are landing these missions in big jets, very well done, its nothing like the real thing, you would make a great test pilot. I am aware of FSX limitations, it just isnt "real world" enough for me. If you dont know what I mean, buy an add on A320 and learn the VOR V ILS landing in free flight mode. VOR lines you up horizontally with the centre line, very oldschool, ILS Laterally and will autoland you depending on the airport. Or just use VOR and fly in manual.

. \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665ing useless game,dont even spend the 99 cents,its dead. I wouldn't have said I was a fan of the card game genre especially, but decided to take a punt on Missile Cards - and I'm really glad I did! Very absorbing gameplay with an element of chance (as you'd expect from a card game) but definitely a good amount of strategy involved as well. This is particularly the case as you build up points and can then choose which upgrades to invest in for your base (makes all the difference in harder levels).

I've spent about 3 hours so far and am not even half way through the levels yet (which get increasingly more difficult), so I think it'll be at least 10+ hours of gameplay. An absolute bargain given the selling price, so it's definitely worth picking up.. now im fine dying alone. I love all the luxor games, but especially this one since it has a cool upgrade system, a nice little campaign and just generally the fun, addicting gameplay one would expect from a luxor game. Would reccomend to anyone who loves puzzle games or other luxor games! :). By far my favorite module.

Low level acrobatic flight and simply taking in the scenery is pleasant in a Sim with this level of visual fidelity. This is a forgiving yet fun plane, especially if you're looking for something light to fly for a change of pace. I can't attest to the flight model accuracy, but it is a public release of a study module ED has created under contract, so I expect it's realistic enough. The plane is honestly one of the most immersive bits of aviation simulation on the market, helped by excellent audio and visual detail.

I wouldn't recommend this as a first module, unless you're sure you have the patience to stick to a single limited trainer. This is a good first full fidelity module, to learn after FC3. My only gripe is short of the landing gear, any damage isn't visually represented.

All in all, a great little Soviet trainer.. Gee where do I begin?

So I booted up this game and noticed there was no audio option... Which was an issue since I was on skype... So right off the bat I was a little dissapointed. Then once I started the game I noticed that the game was darker than the inside of a cow, and the brightness option in the game did nothing to fix that.

The phone prompted me to get out of the building, so I started to run. Almost completely blind I moved towards what I believed was an exit, and I left clicked... The game tabbed me out because it didn't have a mouse lock... I soon after die to god knows what...

After going to my computer settings and turning up the brightness to almost god level I tried to suffer through the game anyway. The next objective that I had an issue in was soon after that. It told me to put the memory chip of one computer into another one, but the first memory chip was hidden in "The second water tank in the restroom." I went in there to look for it, and I broke all of the water tanks *Instead of just opening them... Because \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665 it?* I didn't see the envelope in any of the tanks... After walking back and forth aimlessly for a while I went back into there and just spam clicked e on every tank. I found it... I guess when this guy Mark put a memory card in the second tank in the restroom he also meant he was going to put it in the girls room....

On a plus note from what I could see the game looks almost good if it was brighter... Except for the monster thing... Which looked like a dark cloud and when it killed you your screen was just surrounded in the dark cloud and you died.... Oh and the monster thing glitched out a bit... It attached part of its cloud to a chair and was in the light completely and looked kind of funny.

Overall... This game was poorly done and I am going to take advantage of the steam refund system.. Exactly what I want in a VR puzzle game. This is perfect execution. Except for maybe the requirement on the large room size (4x3m).. boring and overpriced
